

A Summer's Afternoon

A summer's afternoon...

A time to think, a time to grow.

A time to smile at memories never to be forgotten.

A time to let every inch of our mind experience the feeling of each new day;

To let the sun drench our soul with a love of life,
filled with laughter and rainbows...

to allow ourselves to go beyond the visible beauty we see outside,

and really look at that which is within.

L.S.

September 8, 1981